

The Bible in a Year

It's a real challenge—but think of the pay-offs! It's been calculated that it takes the average person 75 hours to read the whole Bible. Add time for prayer, note-making and watching supportive videos, and that amounts to about 30 minutes a day over a year. Not too much to ask of ourselves? Add a longer prayer time and it's still only one hour out of 24!

Of course, this is not about gaining a sense of achievement or clocking up brownie points with God. The Bible is one of the main ways God communicates with us and if we approach this prayerfully, God's Holy Spirit will help us to understand it and bring about life-transforming benefits for us and those around us.

Finally, working in isolation is OK but it's even better when we join together for mutual encouragement (ask weight-watchers!). So do try to meet with us on Thursday evenings at Red House Farm where we can ask questions and share what God has been showing us.

Don't have a good Bible and finances are tight? No problem—let us know and we'll supply you with a Bible and/or CD free of charge.

Suggestions for Bible Reading

These suggestions might make your Bible Reading easier. Go for whatever works for you and fits your circumstances.

Choose a modern translation to aid better understanding. We use the NIV in church but the ESV (English Standard Version), NLT (New Living Translation) and "The Message" are also popular. Eden.co.uk stocks a wide selection and will supply on-line orders if you don't have a favourite bookshop. Versions for phone or tablet are also available from Bible.com.

Try an audio version either on-line or on a CD. Useful if you find reading heavy-going or you want to make use of time commuting to work. Bible.com has audio options you can download or try Eden.co.uk for a CD.

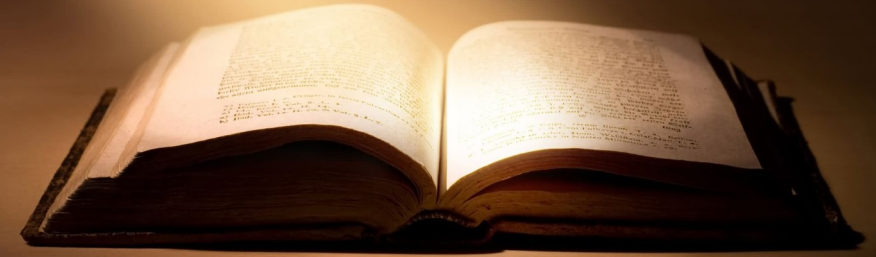

Use a notebook to record insights, thoughts & questions—useful for reminders and for sharing with others. Or buy yourself a "Journaling Bible" - with margins wide enough to scribble your own notes and questions alongside what you are reading. Want to see samples before you buy? Ask Pete.

Bible in a Year Project

This Bible reading plan aims to get us through the whole Bible in one year. Each day read a few chapters, pray over a Psalm, and watch occasional videos to aid your understanding. It will take less than an hour a day. The plan, which we have adapted from readthescrptures.org unfolds in a bi-monthly leaflet (this is the first); the centre pages set out each day's task.

January 2019 starts where we have been over Christmas and takes us through Luke's account of the life of Jesus, followed by his record of how the Jesus movement spread after Jesus's death and resurrection. Then we go back to the beginning of the Bible—Genesis—to see how God created a perfect world and, when things went wrong, how, instead of giving up on the human race, He worked through one family (Abraham's) to begin to restore a broken world. The books of Exodus and Leviticus record how God used Moses to rescue Abraham's descendants from brutal slavery in Egypt and led them into the Sinai desert where He entered into an agreement or covenant with them - a model for all nations.

To help us understand the context of what we are reading we've cross-referenced the reading plan to short videos made by The Bible Project animation studios (thebibleproject.com). You can watch on-line, download for free or find them on YouTube. More videos are being produced all the time so keep an eye out for new ones not mentioned on our plan. We also recommend the occasional DVD.
